Headway Capital Partners hires Amelia Offer as Investor Relations Manager

Headway Capital Partners, a leading provider of capital solutions for private assets, is pleased to announce the appointment of Amelia Offer as Investor Relations Manager in its London office.

With close to a decade's experience working with investors and fund managers active in private markets, Amelia will spearhead investor relations at Headway and further strengthen the team at a time when the firm looks to grow and increase its market presence.

Prior to Headway, Amelia worked at Informa where she researched and managed the world's largest LP/GP relations private equity conference, SuperInvestor, as well as events in the U.S., Europe, Asia and Emerging Markets. The role involved forming relationships with general partners, limited partners and service providers globally and gaining a deep understanding of the industry.

Amelia graduated from Exeter University with a first-class degree in Biological Sciences.

Sebastian Junoy, Partner at Headway, said: We are delighted to welcome Amelia to Headway. Her experience and broad network within the private equity industry will help us strengthen our investor relations function.

Founded in 2004, Headway provides a full range of customised liquidity and capital solutions to investors and private equity managers. Headway is currently investing HIP IV, which hit a hard-cap of €372m in 2019.

Amelia's position brings the Headway Capital team to 16 across Europe and North America.
